WILL INSTALL NEW WATER RESERVOIR

Last Monday evening a regular meeting of the City Council was held in the City Hall, all members being present and Mayor H. H. Smith presiding.

The city engineer and the city attorney were instructed to proceed with the plans and proceedings necessary to erect a new reservoir on the highest point of the Crocker Estate properties in Daly City. This reservoir is to provide additional storage for any emergency that may arise, and also to give proper pressure for adequate fire protection for the homes in the upper end of the Crocker Tract and West End Tract. The location is at an elevation sufficient to supply the highest points in Daly City.

A communication was received from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, asking permission to place approximately 1,177 feet of conduit under the west sidewalk of San Jose avenue, from the Daly City limits to Hillcrest Drive, with two manholes, located at Wilson and Shakespeare streets, and the enlarging of the present manhole at Hillcrest Drive. This conduit run is being placed as a relief route for the company's present Mission street underground conduit. It is the plan of the telephone company to place the conduit under the sidewalk, rather than dig up the street, thereby blocking traffic. The company also promised to replace the paving of the cross streets and sidewalks to the entire satisfaction of the City Council. Such movements as this show progress and mean prosperity for our city.

An objection was brought up that there may be a possible interference to pedestrians entering stores or places of business between Beppler street and Hillcrest Drive. The matter was then referred to the city engineer, who assured the Council that he would see that there would be no blocking or interference along this area.

A petition was received from the Veterans' Welfare Board, asking the cancellation of taxes on lot 13, block 15, Crocker Estate Tract, stating that similar petitions have been granted throughout the state in cities where the board owns property. The request was granted.

An ordinance amending Ordinance No. 160, regulating traffic upon the public streets of Daly City, having to do principally with the placing of arterial stop signs, where necessary, was read for the second time and adopted.

The street committee reported that the new street work in the vicinity of School street had been inspected by the City Council last Sunday, everything being found to be satisfactory, the work having been done in a good and orderly manner.

Complaints were received from citizens in the vicinity of the 100 block of Santa Barbara avenue about a number of barking dogs which have become a public nuisance. Chief of Police Doyle reported that he had already taken the matter up with the owner of the dogs, who has promised to move them very shortly.

The monthly bills were read and a motion was made to draw a warrant on the treasury for the payment of same.

CELEBRATES TWENTIETH BIRTHDAY ON JANUARY 18

Mrs. John Viotti, of Templeton avenue, was hostess to a large group of young folks Saturday evening, January 1, when she entertained in honor of her son Raynold, who celebrated his twentieth birthday. Dancing and games were enjoyed during the evening in the social hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. At midnight a buffet supper was served. Darrel De Martini furnished the music for dancing on her accordion.

The following guests enjoyed a delightful evening: Alma Luna, Ruth Luna, Marguerite Rubilo, Mary Minoli, Anabel Baldochi, Jean Mandani, Percy Taylor, Edward Puccini, Remo Valentino, Edward Valentino, Sera Baldochi, Dudley Posdon, Elia Parsi, Iolanda Guilici, Louis Menconi, Joe Menconi, Eva Menconi, Raynold Viotti, Elmo Viotti, Darrell De Martini, Mabel Vireno, Esther Vireno, Evelyn Hanschen and Eleitta Williams.

WHIST GIVEN BY HILLCREST CIRCLE, U. A. O. D., MONDAY

Hillcrest Circle, U. A. O. D., held a very pleasant and successful whist on Monday evening at Masonic Hall. A business meeting preceded the game and several new members were to be investigated. Arch Druidess Madalene Fellows requested fifty new members for the grand officer's visit on April 14, and by the progress that this Circle has accomplished in the past, every member feels that this will be accomplished. Mrs. L. Lombard is head of the membership committee.

LOCAL MERCHANTS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

A lively meeting of the Daly City Merchants' Association was held on January 15, at the City Hall, at 8:30 p. m., President Andrew Vireno being in the chair.

A communication from the Railroad Commission, officially informing the merchants that after January 1, 1930, the mileage on telephone rates at Daly City was eliminated was read and filed.

An extended discussion of the lighting system in Daly City, and particularly on Mission street, was had, with the inevitable conclusion that the city is well lighted at present, but that on account of the proposed widening of Mission street and San Jose avenue, added improvements will be required.

The matter of building restrictions on Mission street was thoroughly gone into, with the final conclusion that it would be unwise for the Merchants' Association to insist upon any action at this time by the City Council, since any new fireproof building that might be erected now might have to be moved later when the widening of the street takes place. But after the contemplated improvements have been made, the matter will again be taken up and permanent results obtained.

The question of peddler's licenses was brought up and evoked a heated discussion of a proposition to agitate a higher license for outsiders who come into Daly City with inferior goods and undersell the merchants, who are taxpayers and make their home and their living here. Peddlers take money out of town. A committee composed of Henry T. Roloff, Edmund Knoll and W. H. Clay was appointed to confer with the City Council on this matter.

It was decided to have refreshments at the next meeting, on Wednesday, February 5, and all merchants, business and professional men are cordially invited to be present and partake of an enjoyable evening.

EL CARMELO PARLOR OFFICERS INSTALLED

Despite the inclement weather of Wednesday, January 15, a large gathering of members and friends witnessed the installation ceremonies of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, in Masonic Temple.

District Deputy Grand President Marguerite Kaufman of Yosemite Parlor No. 83 was the installing officer and her splendid rendition of the work brought forth praise and commendation of all present.

On behalf of the Parlor, District Deputy Grand President Kaufman, President Hopman, and other officers of the Parlor were presented with beautiful gifts. Retiring Past President Dolores Barron was presented an emblematic pin of the order.

Speeches of congratulation, dancing and delightful refreshments brought to a close a very happy evening.

The officers installed were: Past President, Rose Mowry; President, Florence Hopman; First Vice-president, Frieda Schade; Second Vice-president, Laura Fignoni; Third Vice-president, Collista Dalton; Financial Secretary, Christine Hume; Treasurer, Josephine Poe; Recording Secretary, Hattie Kelly; Marshal, Evelyn Mohr; Trustees, Mary May, Fredereka Volkman, Anne Biggio; Inside Sentinel, Alice Anderson; Outside Sentinel, Ethel Anderson; Organist, Edith Taylor.

MASTER THOMAS DOYLE CELEBRATES NINTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Jack Doyle, of Brunswick street, entertained a group of young folks at her home last Saturday afternoon in honor of her son Thomas, who celebrated his ninth birthday. The children spent a delightful afternoon playing games and having a general good time. Thomas received many lovely gifts from his friends. After the refreshments were served the young merry-makers departed for their homes wishing Thomas many happy returns of the day.

FOOD SALE SATURDAY BY PRESBYTERIAN LADIES

On Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock a food sale will be held in the social hall of the Presbyterian church. A wide variety of home cooked delicacies will be on display, such as pies, cakes, salads, cookies, and the various things that the ladies alone know how to make. Come and get something real good for your Sunday dinner.

JEFFERSON LOSES TO SEQUOIA HIGH

Sequoia high school's unlimited basketball team won a decisive victory from Jefferson on Wednesday, chalked up a 35-15 drubbing on the Redwood City court. The Indians' 130's were defeated by a 15 to 8 score.

The winning unlimited team displayed excellent team work to garner most of their points. The fact that they took only 35 shots and sank 14 of them speaks for itself. The Jefferson players made 30 attempts, mostly long range, and hit the hoop for counters on one-fifth of the occasions.

The 130's game was closely contested at all times, Sequoia holding the lead at every stage of the game. The sinking of foul shots was a big factor in determining the winner. Redwood City made six points in eleven attempts by this means, while Jefferson was stranded with a single counter in eight tries.

The Jefferson unlimited quintet will oppose the Jefferson Alumni team Monday night on the Wesley church court. Fourteenth street, corner of Elgin Park. The game will be called at 7 o'clock.

SCIENTIFIC FACTS AND THE BIBLE

Next Sunday at the Calvary Baptist Chapel, the pastors' sermon for the morning hour service will be, "A Mother and Her Jewels." The sermon for the evening will be, "The Most Remarkable Phenomenon in Human History." The topics for the evening which precede the sermon are "What is Wrong With Men's Clothing?" and "Four Great Immoralities of the Church?"

There will be a special cradle-roll program during the church school hour. Mrs. J. A. Williams is the superintendent of this department. In this service the pastor will speak on "What Babies Think About This World." The cradle-roll program will begin promptly at 9:45 a. m.

On Wednesday evenings the regular prayer meeting service is held. This next Wednesday evening Calvary Baptist Chapel will have as its guest and speaker Mr. Earl Gosa. Mr. Gosa is a graduate of the University of Washington. He will relate and tell of the scientific facts in the Bible, and that a true scientist is one who believes in God, the original creator of that which the scientist studies. Mr. Gosa has chosen as his topic, "Finding God Through the Microscope." Time will also be allowed for a period of general discussion, when Mr. Gosa will answer questions along scientific lines as they deal with the Bible. Daly City is urged to hear this timely discussion.

Plans and arrangements are being made to have Miss Thelma Brown, of KGO radio fame, render one of her programs of negro spirituals. The date for this program will be announced in the Daly City Record.

February 9, at 7:30 p. m., will be the night of all nights! It will be "date night" for Daly City. Seats will be reserved for all dates. The entire evening service will be given over to the theme of love and its significance. The pastor will tell of some of the great lovers of human history.

MRS. M. FELLOWS ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Madalene Fellows entertained the by-laws committee on Monday evening of last week at her home on Niantic avenue. Much business was transacted and afterwards the following enjoyed refreshments prepared by the charming hostess: Mrs. Aida Eade, Lillian Landini, Katherine Forham, Ethel Adams, Victorini Lombard and the hostess.

EAGLES OF COUNTY SOUTH CITY GUESTS

The Associated Aeries of San Mateo county met at South San Francisco last Tuesday evening, with four Aeries responding. Half Moon Bay was not present.

The dance committee made a final report of the dance, held in San Mateo and reported a substantial net profit.

A committee was appointed to prepare for the next big meeting of the Association in Redwood City on February 23. Past Grand Worthy President Ryan of Philadelphia will give an address and preside over the meeting.

A committee of five was appointed to devise ways and means of participating in the annual grand convention to be held in San Francisco in August. The committee is composed of Brothers Stahenne and Schottler of Redwood City, Corlis of San Mateo, Swehla of South San Francisco and Adams of Daly City.

The meeting was one of the largest in the history of the Association, as many members attended from Daly City, San Mateo, Redwood City, and South San Francisco.

Brother Fowler, of Reno, Nevada, formerly attorney general for the state of Nevada, was present and said a few words.

An invitation is extended to every Eagle to attend the next meeting in Redwood City on February 23. A joint initiation will be had in honor of the Past Grand Worthy President.

After the meeting the members retired to the auditorium, where a very delicious repast was served by members of South San Francisco Aerie.

THE EAGLES NEST

The regular meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was held on Thursday evening, January 23, and a good crowd was in attendance.

Brothers were glad to know that Brothers Reardon and Johnson were back at their respective positions after a siege in the hospital. Brothers Pava, Woods and Collins were reported as convalescing.

The California Outdoor Music Association invited the drum corps to participate in their semi-annual meet at Sacramento in February. A big celebration is being planned by the Sacramento Aerie in honor of the Grand Worthy President Charles Chenn of Sacramento, and they invited Colma-Vista Grande to participate.

The booster committee reported progress and met immediately after the regular meeting.

Accredited delegates to the Associated Aerie were appointed, also alternates.

"THE SHEPHERD PSALM" PRESBYTERIAN SERMON

After a test of some thousands of years the Psalm of the Shepherd still holds its place in the hearts of men, women and children. Like an old melody, it is a source of inspiration when all else fails. This Psalm will be thoroughly discussed at Sunday evening's meeting in the Presbyterian church at Hanover and Evergreen, at 7:45.

LANDINI IMPROVES

Constable S. A. Landini is being congratulated on his fine condition. He is rapidly improving and expects, after a long deserved rest, will be back in his office again as well as ever.

LOCAL BOY SCOUTS WILL CELEBRATE

Boy Scout Anniversary Week will be celebrated this year during the week of February 7 through the 13th. February 7 will mark the observance of the twentieth birthday of the Boy Scout movement in this country. Three events of outstanding importance to the nation will mark the celebration. On the evening of February 7 more than 1,800,000 Scouts and their leaders will stand at attention and rededicate themselves to the principles of the Scout oath and law. On February 8, in nearly every city and hamlet of the country, Scouts will mobilize to perform a community good turn. It will be a spectacular demonstration of the rapidity with which Scouts can be mobilized for emergency service at any time. On February 10 patriotic pilgrimages to the graves of presidents of the United States and to other places of historic interest will be taken by many Scouts.

At 8:15 o'clock on February 7 the rededication ceremonies will be observed. Every Scout, wherever he may be, will stand at attention and re-dedicate himself to the principles for which the Scout oath and the Scout law stands. Boy Scouts, Troop Scouts, Sea Scouts, Lone Scouts, and Rural Scouts, representatives of every section of the country and of every type of American home will "Be Prepared" to pledge themselves anew to the ideals and objectives of the Scout movement, which in its twenty years of progress in this country has become the greatest organized effort on behalf of boys of which history holds record.

This year's anniversary week will be of especial significance because, in addition to marking the twentieth birthday of the Boy Scouts of America it will also mark the twenty-first birthday of Scouting throughout the world. The Boys Scouts of America was incorporated in Washington, D. C., on February 8, 1910. In England the movement had been launched three years before by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, its founder.

In observance of the celebration, Boy Scouts will wear their uniforms throughout the week to school and in their homes.

NOTED TURFMAN TO AID BREEDERS

The Pacific Coast Breeders' Association which owns Tanforan racetrack, has announced that Joseph A. Murphy has accepted an invitation to come to San Francisco and work out with the directors of the association a plan of policy and procedure. Judge Murphy, who has been in Florida until recently, expects to reach this city about the first of February.

There is probably no one in America better equipped than Judge Murphy to give expert opinion on the problems of the breeders' association. For some years he was secretary of the St. Louis Fair, at that time the most pretentious agricultural and live stock exhibit in the country.

Joseph A. Murphy

The officers of the breeders' organization realize that he will bring to the association an intimate knowledge of a bay district fair if the activities of the local body develop in that direction.

His newspaper experience, which has been wide and varied, will be a valuable aid to the interests which are exploiting Northern California as a stopping place for rich tourists. He is confident the breeders' association can be brought into close affiliation with many forces for mutual advantage.

Judge Murphy has a comprehensive knowledge of racing which has made him an authority in the United States and Canada, not only on the

COUNTY CHARTER FAVORED BY JURY

San Mateo county voters should name a board of freeholders at the primary election this summer to draw up a county charter, declares the annual report of the county grand jury drawn up last Monday morning ready for presentation to Superior Court Judge Geo. H. Buck.

The report urges the supervisors to take immediate steps to see that the list of freeholders be submitted at the next primary and to do all within their power to obtain a county charter form of government. The recommendation of the grand jury is in line with the recommendation of the previous grand jury, which likewise supported the county charter plan.

Equalization of assessed valuations throughout the county also is urged on the supervisors, and hearty support for the county water district plan evolved by engineers for bringing Crystal Springs water to all the communities of the bayshore.

The report praises janitors and gardeners at the county courthouse and suggests a "modest" raise in pay for them. It comments on conditions at the courthouse, which it finds excellent except that some of the departments are crowded.

Sheriff McGrath and the county jail also come in for commendation, and recommendation is made that the county arrange to use the extra tier of cells in order that misdemeanor and felony prisoners may be kept separate. Better roads to Memorial Park and fire trails to protect it and immediate construction of an additional wing at the county hospital are among its recommendations.

Monday afternoon, before submitting the report to Judge Buck, the members of the grand jury were in special session, adopting an addition to the report making suggestions regarding the banking of public money.

rules of racing, but on the laws and statutes in regard to the sport.

An added asset, the officers of the association believe, is the fact that Judge Murphy counts many of the most influential men in California as his personal friends. In the early days of racing he was at various times presiding steward of Bay District, Ingleside, Oakland and Tanforan. He has a wide acquaintance both among the old school of turfmen and the new.

DALY CITY SINGERS TAKE PART IN TEMPLE ORATORIO

Mrs. Orville Pauw, of Hanover street, and her son Roelof participated in the singing of the difficult Oratorio by Handel, "Judas Maccabaeus," rendered by a chorus of sixty voices at Temple Emanuel-El in San Francisco on Friday evening of last week, in honor of the eighteenth anniversary of the founding of the congregation. Mrs. Pauw was among the altos and her son among the bass singers. The boys from Grace Cathedral participated in the third part of the Oratorio, the chorus being assisted by members of the San Francisco symphony orchestra. Wallace Sabin was at the organ and Mrs. Edward E. Young at the piano.

The whole formed a picture never to be forgotten. At the bottom of the pulpit and organ loft of the magnificent edifice were first the orchestra; above them on a platform was the chorus of Temple Emanuel-El in sombre black gowns, and on the stairs leading to the pulpit and in the pulpit were the young boys from Grace Cathedral, in blue robes with white ties, and their sweet young faces made one think of angels on their way to heaven.

Mrs. Sigrid Millhauser, of Crocker avenue, and Mrs. C. Lorentzen, of Templeton avenue, were among the invited guests who greatly enjoyed this wonderful concert.

TWINS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Lucile and Lavern McGouirk, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McGouirk, of Brunswick street, celebrated their third birthday last Tuesday afternoon. The table was prettily decorated in yellow crepe paper. A pretty yellow paper basket, in the center of the table, contained little surprise gifts for each guest. There was also a little yellow basket of candy for each guest. A huge birthday cake delighted the youngsters.

Those who enjoyed a delightful afternoon were Mrs. Mary Murphy and daughter Marilyn, Mrs. E. Billehus and son Lloyd, Mrs. Sylvia Fischer and daughter Sylvia, Mrs. Grace Baccigalupi and daughter Gloria, Mrs. H. Peterson and son Henry, Mrs. M. Battye and daughter Marilyn, Mrs. C. Jackson and son Jack, Mrs. McDonough and daughter Barbara, Mrs. Madeline Fellows and sons Kenneth and Wilbur, Miss Annette Lucy and Mr. Eugene Lucy, Sr.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore

LITTLE PRAISED FOR GRID LOVERS

Induces Football Stars to Stick on Field of Snow.

When university students carry on until mid-December an intramural football league, playing during the last two weeks on snow-covered fields and in zero temperatures, and when they enlist forty teams in an interfraternity basketball league, all games of which are played during the luncheon and dinner hours, it must be conceded that they are playing for the love of the game.

The paper read by George Little, director of physical education and athletics at Wisconsin, on "The Results of an Intramural Football Experiment at the University of Wisconsin," created a profound impression at the recent meeting of the National Association of Directors of Physical Education in New York.

Under the leadership of Director Little, Wisconsin has promoted regular football as an intramural sport for three years with remarkable success. During the season just closed twenty-eight fraternity teams, four dormitory teams and four teams in a so-called Wisconsin league, played schedules involving 152 games, in which 662 students took part.

The cost of intramural football at Wisconsin was astonishingly low. The average cost of equipment for each of the 662 men who played intramural football at Wisconsin in 1929 was $1.71 and the average cost of training and instruction, $1.25.

Was the late Miller Huggins "human?" Former members of the St. Louis Cardinals will tell you that he was. A little story will indicate the point:

It was against the rules for the Cardinal team to rattle the bones, but some of the athletes would take a chance on most anything.

On a train bearing the Cards east Charley O'Leary, Pol Perritt, Harry Sallee and Frank Snyder decided to start a "crap" game. "Better pipe down," said Sid Keener, a traveling correspondent, "or Hug will hear you."

Just then Huggins stepped into the smoking compartment as Slim Sallee shoved out an eleven.

"If that's your shot," cracked Miller, "I'll top it with $100 apiece for you, Sal and Polly, Pancho and Snyder."

The next Christmas each one of the four received a letter from the St. Louis club. Inclosed was a check for $100.

Some of these basketball coaches also do their part toward adding to the gaiety of the nations.

After some awkward back guard has hauled off and hoisted the ball in the general direction of the skylight, only to have it fall through the loop just as the gun sounds to give his team a one-point victory, the coach explains that he "sent in a little forward to dribble around 'em, and told the back guard to say 'King's X' every time they shot, and we foxed them."

There is no luck in the game, from some of the coaches' point of view, except when they lose.

One coach who had a quintet of string beans last year used to instruct the officials before the game: "Now, I want you to call 'em right tonight. You want to watch out that my big men can't be guarded by those little fellows without being fouled."

This year this same coach has a team of little roly-polies himself, and his song-and-dance to the officials before the game goes: "Now, I want you to call 'em right tonight. You want to watch out, as my little men are so fast they can't be guarded by those big fellows without being fouled."

Proving that there are two sides to every argument, if you are smart enough to figure them out.

Aside from the fact that St. Mary's college of San Francisco failed to land on the schedule of either Stanford or Southern California for 1930, one of the high lights of the recent Pacific conference meeting is the plethora of intersectional games that will be staged this fall. Stanford leads with two, playing Minnesota at Minneapolis, and Dartmouth at Palo Alto. Oregon State meets West Virginia at Chicago November 27. Oregon goes to Chicago for the night game with Drake October 4. Southern California has its customary game with Notre Dame at Los Angeles December 6.

One of the features of winter sport in Sweden is a new 60-mile ski slide. When they start you on your way, you're practically deported.

A strange football field is in use at Chattanooga, Tenn. The "gridiron" is only 60 yards in length instead of the regulation 100, and when the ball has been pushed over the goal line, instead of a touchdown being scored it is taken back to the 40-yard line and an effort made to repeat.

Spectators who have watched contests on the abbreviated field say that the second 40 yards seems to be the harder to negotiate.

The style of the quarterbacks is somewhat cramped when they are down in the vicinity of the goal line for their choice of plays is limited and if they are fortunate enough to uncover a scoring maneuver, they have not scored but have merely crossed the goal line with 40 yards more of rocky road to be traveled.

GOOD SAUCES

A well-made sauce, smooth, nicely seasoned, will add much to any dish of meat or vegetables.

Often a good white sauce for a foundation may be used with chopped hard-cooked egg, lobster, or cooked mushrooms, parsley, or various other flavor foods, to make a most tasty sauce.

Onion Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour, and two of finely chopped onions. Cook until light brown, then add one-half cupful of good stock, stirring constantly. Mix one teaspoonful each of sugar, made mustard, and tarragon vinegar; add while the sauce is boiling.

German Sauce.—Put three tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan with a sprig of parsley finely chopped, add four good-sized tomatoes with seeds removed, or the equivalent of canned tomato. Season with salt and pepper, add one-half cupful of water and bring to the boiling point. Serve with roast meats.

Dutch Sauce.—Put the yolks of two eggs with four tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half cupful of water, salt and nutmeg to season, and mix thoroughly. Do not boil, but simmer until thick, over hot water. Remove from the fire, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice and serve with fish or calves' head.

Horseshoe Sauce.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of soft white bread with the same amount of grated horseradish, cover with two tablespoonfuls of cream, and let soak three hours. Rub through a sieve, add a teaspoonful of sugar, season with salt and add enough vinegar to make the sauce the consistency of cream. This sauce will keep several days.

Maitre d' Hotel Sauce.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and add one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of salt, the same of pepper and add slowly one tablespoonful of lemon juice. This will keep some time in a cool place. Soften before using.

SALAD MAKING

There is nothing like the fresh crispness of a salad to tempt the appetite in any season, but more especially in the spring. Chives, young onions, mint, parsley and other flavor herbs, sprinkled over spring salads make them more appetizing.

As soon as the snow is off, cress is ready to gather. This piquant green is especially well liked served with french dressing. With lamb chops, simply garnish the platter with the fresh cress; it needs no dressing except salt.

Cucumber Jelly.—Grate enough peeled cucumbers to make a pint, season with salt, pepper, paprika, olive oil and vinegar—two of oil and one of vinegar. Add one teaspoonful of gelatin softened in two teaspoonfuls of cold water, dissolve over hot water until soft, then add to the cucumber and mix well. In the bottom of each individual mold, place a half walnut meat, then pour in the cucumber mixture. Serve turned out on lettuce leaves and top with a spoonful of mayonnaise. A little grated onion added to the cucumber will improve it for most people.

Cress and Walnut Salad.—Take one-half cupful of walnut meats, or pecans are better; squeeze over them one lemon, and let stand a short time. Wash and drain the water cress, and just as it goes to the table pour over it a french dressing and sprinkle with the nuts. Allowing the dressing to stand on any green salad wilts it and destroys its attractiveness.

Frozen Asparagus Salad.—Now that it is so easy to freeze various things in the ice chests, one may enjoy a variety of frozen dishes.

Cook a small bunch of fresh asparagus in as little water as possible, until tender. Remove the tips and rub the stalks through a strainer. Season well with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Cool, add a cupful of cream and one of mayonnaise dressing. Fold in the asparagus tips, pack in molds and freeze.

Fruit Salad.—Take a package or two of lemon gelatin, dissolve with boiling water, or if one has any fruit juice, or elder, that may be substituted for part of the water. Prepare green grapes—those that are seedless need only to be stemmed and washed; other grapes will need to be skinned and seeded, cut into halves. Add a few slices of pineapple finely diced, an apple finely minced, a pear or two and a few peaches cut into bits; oranges and grapefruit also add to the fruit flavor. Set away to mold and serve with a cream dressing or with whipped cream.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

A stage carpenter went to the theater manager one day and asked for an increase in his wages. The manager appeared surprised.

"Why," he exclaimed, "I really don't see my way to giving you a raise! You have nothing much to do. Half the time you are merely standing in the wings listening to the play."

"Yes, sir," replied the carpenter, grimly, "that's just it!"—Ipswich Star.

"Yes," smiled the old maid, "I loved and won."

"But you never married!" exclaimed her caller.

"No," she replied, "he jilted me and I got $10,000 heart balm, while the girl who married him found he wasn't worth 30 cents as a husband."

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Bayer is safe. It's always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

"Always in Good Humor" says Bill "and my Folks, too"

YOUNG BILL FREEMAN, Jr., of 707 South Street, Key West, Florida, has started in early telling the world his secret of health. "I don't know that I would have been the cause of divorce," writes Bill, through his mother, "but certainly the first three months of my life my mother was a nervous wreck, and so was I. I never saw father because he didn't like my disposition—and every day it was a fight at our house—either castor oil or an enema, and I was just about ready to quit home."

"Finally, they started in giving me a half teaspoonful of Nujol night and morning. I am five months old now, and I take Nujol every other night, which keeps me so well regulated that I am always in good humor, and so are my folks."

How simple it is, after all. No drugs, no medicines, no irritating cathartics. Just simple and natural lubrication which our bodies need as much as any machine. Nujol is not absorbed by the body. It is non-fattening; it can form no habit; it cannot hurt the smallest baby. What it does is keep our bodies internally clean of the poisons we all have and which, unless they are swept away as regularly as clock work, give us headaches, make us feel sick, low in our minds, blue, down on the world.

Nujol is as tasteless and colorless as pure water. Start this very night and see how different you will feel after a few days. It costs but a few cents and it makes you feel like a million dollars. You can buy it at any drug store in a sealed package. With millions of people all over the world keeping well with Nujol there is no reason why you, too, should not be joyous, full of pep, with the happiness that comes of good health. FUTURE HIGH FLYERS

William A. Freeman, Jr., who licks the spoon in preparation for licking the world.

Practical air navigation at altitudes of eight miles or more is predicted for the not very distant future by conservative aircraft engineers, and actual plans for such development are being seriously considered, according to a recent article in Popular Science.

At least two aviators have already attained an altitude of approximately eight miles, at which the temperature is between 60 and 70 degrees below zero. By means of balloons it has been determined that beyond this altitude it does not get any colder, so the problem of temperature might be readily solved.

Owing to the rarity of the atmosphere at such heights, an artificial supply of oxygen is necessary, and such has been carried by the pioneers in exploring the upper air. This rare atmosphere also presents another problem, in that resistance to the airplane propeller is reduced, making more powerful motors necessary in order to keep the craft aloft. This does not appear to be an insuperable difficulty.

A young German engineer proposes to build a plane to navigate these upper reaches of the air at a speed of more than 650 miles an hour. Recently the famous plane designer, Sikorski, predicted "a new type of airplane with highly supercharged motors and an inclosed cabin with air kept under approximately normal pressure to permit flying at high altitudes with speeds of say 400 to 500 or more miles an hour."

Incredible as it seems now, no one can say with certainty that it can not be done.

In the Senate, too, the situation is fundamentally sound—and wind.

RADIO'S TOP-NOTCHER

Those who stand at the very top in any profession or activity are always interesting personalities, whether they be movie stars, sport champions, endurance flyers, bathing beauties, or what not.

One of the latest top-notchers to attract wide attention is Hugh Barrett Dobbs, who through a recent contract became the world's highest paid radio entertainer, whose salary exceeds that of the President of the United States.

The story of his meteoric rise to fame and fortune reads like a fairy tale, for it was not until four and a half years ago that Dobbs first appeared before the microphone. His first broadcast, known as the health exercise period, was developed into a special program for cripples, convalescents and other shut-ins, thousands of whom have been cheered by his daily offerings from Pacific coast radio stations.

Some time ago his work attracted the attention of H. H. Sanders, an executive of Shell Oil Company, who had the vision to sense the possibility of utilizing the unusual appeal of the Dobbs broadcast more widely and more effectively. The result was a three-year contract for Dobbs which will net him more than a quarter of a million dollars for devoting his talents exclusively to the Shell radio programs.

Thus a man of middle age, whose career includes discharge from the Naval Academy for mischievous pranks, surveying in Alaska, teaching physical culture, building playgrounds, dabbling in movie enterprises, selling musical instruments, and other varied activities, becomes radio's premier entertainer—if his salary is an accurate gauge of his qualifications. And it probably is.

TIMBER FIRES COSTLY

In spite of all precautions, last year was one of the most disastrous in history in forest fire losses. Nearly 6,000 separate fires occurred in national forests alone, destroying timber worth many millions of dollars, covering an area of more than 840,000 acres.

No estimates of the losses in state and private forests are available, but they reach an enormous total. When it is considered that a large percentage of trees burned were around 100 years old, the lasting damage to an important natural resource can be better appreciated.

The problem of reducing these losses is a most difficult one. Much money is being spent in providing forest rangers, lookout stations, airplane patrols and other means for detecting and extinguishing incipient fires, but under conditions of extreme drought, such as obtained last year, these seem unavailing.

Still, nearly all these losses are caused by the carelessness of tourists and others, who fail to exercise caution in the disposition of burning matches, cigar and cigarette butts, and in putting out camp fires before leaving them.

Most fires, in forests and elsewhere, are caused by indifference and negligence, which it seems impossible to overcome.

FASHIONS OF 1880

In a recent radio address in which fact and humor were delightfully commingled, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, described the "good old days" of 50 years ago. His description of some fashions of the time were both interesting and amusing.

Recalling the basques, polonaises, hoopskirts and bustles of a former day, reference was also made to an incident which occurred in Lyons, N. Y., in 1880. While trying to fit a customer into a new dress embodying the "wasp waist" effect so popular at the time, a dressmaker broke the lady's ribs.

In the homes of the period were seen wax flowers, embroidered mottoes, horsehair sofas, tatting tides, "what-nots" adorned with conch shells, kerosene lamps and "family albums" replete with tintypes portraying Aunt Sally with her head carefully held in position by a cast iron prong.

In 1880 the telephone was a new toy, and a European newspaper described Edison's reported invention of the incandescent lamp as "the latest American humbug." Few believed that man would ever fly; the X-ray and radio were undreamed of, and there were no automobiles. Most men wore beards and nearly everyone had appendix and tonsils intact. Perhaps those who look back upon us from the vantage point of 50 years hence will find us as interestingly amusing as we behold the folks of 50 years ago.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS

Perhaps in no other industry is there such a variety of conditions as in the newspaper business. Totalled indiscriminately, there are something over 14,000 newspapers in the United States, ranging from the smallest country weekly which prints only two pages in its own shop, with additional pages printed by a syndicate, to the great metropolitan dailies which employ thousands of persons each.

For the smallest, probably not more than 25 pounds of paper is required each week, while the Chicago Tribune uses for one Sunday edition all the paper produced from timber grown on 240 acres of land.

According to Grove Patterson, the well-known writer, the New York Times employs 3,100 persons, with a payroll of $25,000,000 a year. Hearst's newspapers and magazines use more than $50,000,000 worth of paper a year.

But in spite of the disparity between the smallest and the largest of American newspapers, the publisher of the small country weekly need not be overawed by the size of his metropolitan rival. The local newspaper has a place in the life of its community which the great dailies can not usurp if the local publisher is alive to his opportunities and makes the most of them.

Now, as always, the home town newspaper is the best and cleanest exponent of constructive journalism.

A DOCTOR OF CITIES

Several years ago, Dr. Caroline B. Crane left the pulpit of the People's Church in Kalamazoo, Mich., to become a doctor.

Her ministrations are not applied to individuals, however, but to "sick" cities, of which it is said that more than 60, large and small, have been greatly benefited by her treatment.

For about 28 years she has conducted social and sanitary surveys of municipalities in many states, usually working under the auspices of state and local health authorities. She is an expert in city planning and administration and a foe of grafters. Among her laudable activities has been the waging of relentless war on loan sharks who exploit the poor.

Her career has been marked by an unusual degree of usefulness and like many other noted publicists she obtained her first experience in dealing with social and civic problems as a newspaper writer and editor.

FUR FARMING GROWS

It may be surprising to many to be told that there are now more than 5,000 fur farms in the United States and Canada, most of which have been established during the last 10 or 12 years.

These farms represent an investment of around $25,000,000 and from them are now produced and marketed about 80,000 skins each year, which are not sufficient to adequately supply the demand.

Thus it will be seen that a new and important industry is being developed which embraces a practical conservation plan as well, just as the commercial raising of cattle and hogs has preserved those animals from extinction.

Another point in favor of fur farming is its humane aspect. Instead of being tortured for hours and even days in cruel traps, the fur farm animals may be instantaneously put to death when their pelts are needed for the market.

Women of the future may wear handsome furs without the feeling that they do so at the expense of frightful suffering on the part of the beautiful animals which contribute to their comfort and adornment.

REMINDER OF A DEBT

Anxiety recently felt for the safety of a ship carrying many priceless paintings from Italy to an art exhibition in England may well remind us of the debt the world owes to Italian thinkers, writers and artists for the part they played in rescuing mankind from the decadence of the Dark Ages.

About the year 1400 there arose in Italy that great movement known as the Renaissance. It was not an organized movement, as it had no definite leader, no definite beginning and no definite aim. Yet it contained the seed from which all modern culture has sprung. It has been described as "the rise of a new impulse in literature, the welling up of an enthusiastic delight in freedom of thought, speech and action."

With this movement were associated such great Italians as Filelfo, Politian, Scaliger and other illustrious scholars, as well as Perugino, Leonardo da Vinci, Rafael, Michaelangelo, and their immortal companions in the realm of art. The impulse of their genius spread throughout Europe and left its indelible impression upon all subsequent history.

Truly the world owes much to Italy, whose contributions to science, philosophy, literature and art marked the dawning of a new day, after seven centuries or more of medieval darkness.

A KINDLY DICTATOR

Mustapha Kemal, president and virtual dictator of Turkey, has ruled with a rather stern hand since he rose to power in 1922, and his official record would hardly indicate much sentiment in his nature, although his regime has been marked by many salutary reforms.

That he has a kindly heart beneath his rough exterior is evidenced, however, by his solicitude for the welfare of children, six of whom he has adopted, five girls and a boy.

The boy was tending sheep in the hills when the dictator ran across him and was struck by his bright, intelligent face and also by the fact that the lad appeared undernourished.

Kemal took him in charge, sent him to a hospital to be cared for, adopted him, gave him his name and arranged for his education.

Thus a poor shepherd boy may one day rise to high position in his native land, because a mighty dictator and a Turk at that had a heart.

PROPER FOOD TEMPERATURES

The importance of low temperatures in the preservation of food in the home is illustrated in a chart recently issued by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Cooked vegetables, eggs, fats and left-overs should be held at a temperature not over 50 degrees. Berries and cooked meats are a little harder to keep properly and a temperature of not over 48 degrees is recommended by the Bureau for such foods.

A still lower temperature is advised for uncooked meats, poultry and salad material held in a covered jar. Such supplies should be kept at a temperature not higher than 47 degrees, the charts indicate.

On account of the favorable field they afford for bacterial growth milk-broth and dishes largely composed of milk should be kept at a temperature not above 55.

Uncooked meats should be placed in an uncovered dish, or covered very loosely. Cooked meats can be stored by covering loosely with oiled paper. The coldest place in the refrigerator should be reserved for the most perishable foods.

A report that a dog had been found in St. Louis with its mouth sewed shut and nearly starved, excited nationwide sympathy and brought generous contributions for the apprehension of the perpetrator of the heinous act. Now the report is declared to have been faked and the suffering dog a myth.

Those who have an exaggerated idea of "race hatred" in the South may ponder this: Some weeks ago at

Legion Field in Birmingham, during a football game the band of the negro Tuskegee Institute played its Alma Mater song, whereupon, according to the Age-Herald, "almost to a man, those in the white section of the stand arose and uncovered their heads, showing a fine appreciation of the fitness of the act to the occasion."

Peace officers are getting so thick that they run afoul of each other. A Washington policeman arrested a man for speeding; the man turned out to be a prohibition officer and he in turn arrested the policeman for interfering with a Federal limb of the law.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEES' SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT default having been made in the payment of the promissory note and sums secured by that certain deed of trust executed by HOMESTEAD REALTY CO., a corporation, to GEO. M. Colma News Notes

Miss Marian Fischer and Miss Theresa Morazini, of South San Francisco, were visitors last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Fischer.

Tomaso Stefani, popularly known as Bedini, who has been confined to a hospital, is now able to be up and around again, which is good news to his many friends.

Eugene Graziani, Sr., who has been ill and confined indoors, is reported much improved, which is good news to his many friends, who wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Sylvia Fischer and little daughter Sylvia were luncheon guests on Thursday of last week at the home of Mrs. Dave Johnston, of Mission street, Daly City.

Albert Sturla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sturla, of South San Francisco, is seriously ill and confined to the hospital. Their many friends are hoping for a speedy recovery.

Postmaster Harry L. Todd, of San Francisco, was a very welcome visitor in Colma last Saturday, where he spent an enjoyable afternoon visiting with the Ver Linden girls at the Colma postoffice.

Many from Colma are planning to attend the annual auto show to be held in the Civic Auditorium during the week of February 1-8. Several of the local auto dealers are planning to participate in this affair.

Little Billie Martinielli, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Martinielli, has been confined to his bed and under the doctors' care, suffering from an attack of croup, during the latter part of this week.

Eddie Dennis and several of his friends motored over the week end to Yosemite Valley in Eddie's new 1930 Buick sedan. A very enjoyable time was had in all the winter sports, including snow fights. All returned home safely and report having had a wonderful time.

SIDELIGHTS

It may be true that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but a roving husband can gather some wives, as David LaFavor, recently convicted in Los Angeles, demonstrated. At the age of 63 he had a collection of nine living wives, all of whom appeared in court at his trial.

According to the Pathfinder, the Georgia legislature defeated a bill permitting women to hold office 35 years ago on the ground that "the character of Southern women is the brightest spot in the South's bright history" and that mixing in politics would dim that brightness. We wouldn't attempt to prove that those old timers were wrong, even if they were old-fashioned.

One unidentified Paris boulevardier doesn't prefer blondes, and certainly he is no gentleman. Making the chance acquaintance of one Mlle. Annette Cozo in a cafe, he took her for a stroll. Seated in a park, she removed her hat, disclosing her very light colored hair. "A blonde" shouted her escort, then threw her across his knee and after giving her a few sound spanks he fled.

Punishment to fit the crime was meted out to two young boys by David Petrie, police captain of Lowell, Mass. They had deflated five automobile tires, which the captain made them pump up by hand, although a compressed air nozzle was near by.

Losing his pants through politeness was the fate of George Wiltshire, Memphis grocer's clerk. When he bowed low to a lady he was serving at the curb, a passing automobile fender attached itself to the seat of his trousers, removing them without injury to Wiltshire.

Hunters are notorious for mistaking their targets, and Jack Evers of Green River, Wyo., is no exception. When he presented a pelt at the courthouse to claim a wolf bounty, it was pointed out to him that he had erred in shooting and skinning the sheriff's police dog.

Uncle Sam isn't so prompt in settling war debts himself, according to the heirs of a colonist named James Bell. They have presented a claim for supplies said to have been furnished to Washington's army during the Revolution, in the sum of $6,056 and accrued interest.

A bad boy is Morris Stern, 99 years old, who is an inmate of a home for the aged in Brooklyn. He has run away from the institution 13 times and is now learning to smoke. His first cigar landed him in the hospital, but he says he will master the weed yet.

SOMETHING NEW

By a new and inexpensive process the natural gray color of aluminum may be turned to white.

French engineers predict air liners propelled by steam and carrying 1,000 passengers as a possibility of the future.

The great 200-inch telescope being designed for erection on a mountain in California will have a mirror weighing 30 tons. The telescope will cost about $12,000,000.

English dentists claim to have developed artificial teeth which may be as firmly fixed as natural ones.

Hollow steel propellers for vessels are being tested by the United States Navy.

Exports of American dyes to Germany during 1929 were about three times as great as during 1928.

Travelers' checks issued by the American Bankers' Association will be reduced in size in keeping with the new currency.

A new automatic device will shut water out of pipes when freezing is threatened.

An excellent synthetic motor fuel is being produced in England from soft coal.

Moulded wood pulp furniture in a variety of colors will be placed on the market soon.

An improved method of transmitting electricity long distances without leakage of current is announced by German engineers.

It is claimed that a new species of corn has been developed which will resist the ravages of the European corn borer.

Progress in solving the problem of sending natural color talking pictures by television is reported.

Names of drunkards and any offenses committed by them are published in newspapers of Kiev, Ukraine.

Manufacture of whisky under government supervision for medicinal use has been resumed at a Louisville distillery, where the first liquor legally made since 1917 was recently run.

English scientists confirm the American view that use of the telephone is making the hearing power of the left ear more acute than that of the right.

A pass through the California mountains which was traversed by the Graf Zeppelin on its trip around the world has been named Eckner Pass in honor of the dirigible's commander.

The American people send more than 26,000,000,000 messages over the telephone lines in a year.

Women rule a certain tribe of Indians in Peru, which indicates that American civilization is spreading.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, ALLAN BARRICK RYAN (a single man), did on November 5th, 1925, make and execute to MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY, OF CALIFORNIA (now known as AMERICAN NATIONAL COMPANY), a corporation, as trustee, for the benefit of MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA (now known as AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY), a corporation, a deed of trust to secure the payment to said American Trust Company, of that certain promissory note of even date therewith, for the principal sum of one thousand two hundred and no/100 ($1,200.00) Dollars, and subsequent advances, together with interest thereon at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, which said deed of trust was thereafter and on November 10th, 1924, recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Liber 140 of Official Records, at page 119; and

WHEREAS, said deed of trust was assigned to said American Trust Company, as successor to the trustee above named; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the promissory note secured by said deed of trust and said AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY caused to be recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the County of San Mateo, on October 19th, 1929, in Liber 436 of Official Records, at page 285 thereof, being the County wherein the trust is situated, a notice of such default and of its election to sell or cause to be sold said property to satisfy said obligation;

NOW, THEREFORE, pursuant to said demand and in accordance with the power and authority conferred upon it by said deed of trust, said AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY, as trustee, hereby gives notice that on Tuesday, February 25th, 1930, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock A. AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. Take a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at a very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3855 1/2 Wolf St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

WNU Service

(©, 1929, Doubleday Doran & Co., Inc.)

CHAPTER I

This story is going to start like a lesson in geography. This is because it is largely a chronicle of real events in human lives. History, whether of things or people, rests upon the basic necessity of possessing certain aspects of situation which we encompass within the terms of latitude and longitude. The following narrative would quite profoundly miss its real drama if it were to ignore the points of the compass and the manner in which Fate played with them to bring about an unusual combination of ends.

We will begin with Peribonka. Peribonka is a quaint little French-Canadian village which nestles on the shore of the glorious Peribonka river, four miles above Lac St. Jean, in the province of Quebec. It is made up almost entirely of a single row of thirty or forty houses, all of which face the river. Should one adventure a little farther into the wilderness after having made the wonderful Saguenay trip up from Quebec to Ha Ha bay or Chicoutimi and come to know Peribonka for himself, he will understand why the houses are situated with no neighbors or obstructions between them and the river. For the river is a living, breathing, God-sent thing to the French-speaking people of the place, about whose drowsy lives there still remains, like a sweet-scented veil of old lavender lace, the picturesque simplicity of their great-grandfathers of a hundred and fifty years ago.

In contrast to the roaring, passionate Mistassini, fifteen miles away, the Peribonka is peculiarly like the men and women and children who inhabit a few acres of its shores. It has, I believe, given to them much of their character, for of all the people in the habitant country those of Peribonka are the gentlest and most lovable. Even in the floodtimes of spring it is not an angry or menacing river, and in winter it is so gently smooth and well frozen that the habitant farmers use it for their horse-and-cutter races, or as a trail by which to come to town. In spite of its great size and the vast forces behind it, the kindness and gentleness of its nature must have made its people what they are. The men are truthful, their morals are right, they believe in God as well as in spirits, they are clean and courteous and hospitable. The women are bright eyed, clear skinned, unrouged, unobbed, pretty. These people are always looking toward the river, in the evening when they go to bed, in the morning when they get up. They have built their picturesque little church facing it, and the good Father sleeps with his bedroom window opening upon it. The local cemetery occupies an acre of hallowed ground within a hundred feet of the water's edge. A venerable monastery is built at the mouth of it.

Until quite recently the two happiest people in the village of Peribonka were Maria Chapdelaine and her husband Samuel. They are still happy, although Samuel is a bit overcast at present because of a financial loss which has come to him. For years Samuel has run his little store and Maria her kitchen, in which she prepares delectable meals for the few transients who come their way, and until this recent time to which I have referred, there is good reason to believe she was the happiest woman in her little world.

Now there is another. They call her the Crippled Lady. She is often seen sitting on the wide veranda of a quaint little home in a garden of flowers just this side of the church. There is a road which completely encircles Lac St. Jean, connecting the villages and farms in its narrow rim of civilization, and during the tourist season occasional automobiles pass through Peribonka. Their occupants always stare at the Crippled Lady if she happens to be on her porch. She is a vision of loveliness which one cannot easily forget. Women talk about her, and men silently bear away a picture of her in their hearts. Her beauty, if one has only a moment's contemplation of it, strikes almost with a shock. It is Slavie-thick, dark, shining hair drawn smoothly back, a face clearly white as a nun's, unforgettable eyes, a slim, beautiful figure in a big chair—and something else. It is that other thing which photographs her so vividly and so permanently upon one's consciousness. Perhaps it is some time before one realizes that what he has seen is not beauty alone but happiness. The Crippled Lady, who cannot walk, who cannot stand alone, is happy, and she covets nothing which God has not already given her. Her voice tells you that.

The people of Peribonka love this charming foreigner, who has made her home among them. The women are not jealous of her. She makes the significance of purity and beauty nearer and more comprehensive for the men. The Church prayed for her when she was very sick. She is of all religions, just loving God, so that even the sternest of the monks in their grim white walls down near the lake speak and think of her tenderly. The children worship her, and the big wide porch of her home has become a shrine for them. In Peribonka youth still continues to grow up into manhood and womanhood believing with great faith in the visible existence of spirits, both good and bad, and in the varied and frequent manifestations of a divine interest and watchfulness. So the children have come to believe that it was a miracle which sent the Crippled Lady through the doors of death and then brought her safely back again, that she might remain with them always. Even the mothers and fathers believe this, just as surely as they believe it is a sin to steal from one's neighbor or speak falsehood against him. "Thus works the hand of God," the good Father has said. So the Church believes it, too.

They all know her story. And that story is an epic which will live for a long time in the country about Lac St. Jean. I doubt if it will die until the so-called progress of industrially active man thrusts up its grimy hand and inundates it, along with the quaintness and beauty and satisfying nearness to God of living up there.

It is this story I have set out to tell, with a bit of geography to begin with—who the Crippled Lady is and why she is there, how she bravely tried to give up her life for another woman's husband, and why she lives today so happily in Peribonka.

CHAPTER II

It is unusual that an Indian should be born in one of the wealthiest families in New York.

Yet it happened. A traveler to the city of Brantford, Ont., will find within a few miles of the town a little church built for the Indians by King George the Third, and close about it an old cemetery, in which rests the dust of the last of the great Iroquois warriors and chiefs. In a tomb built of stone, which is green with age and moss, lies Thayendanege, greatest of all the Mohawks, and more commonly known as Joseph Brant. Readers of the romance, as well as the act of history, may recall the day when Sir William Johnson, the king's right arm in the Colonies, first saw Thayendanege's sister. He was attending a muster of his county militia when an officer came galloping by with a beautiful Indian girl of sixteen riding laughingly behind him. Sir William, whose wife had recently died, caught a vision of lovely dark eyes and of flowing black hair streaming in a cloud behind a form of rare symmetry and grace, and in that moment the heart of the lonely and susceptible widower was smitten so deeply that evening found Molly Brant in Johnson castle, where she remained, thenceforth its mistress and the idol of its proprietor.

Geography and history skip a hundred and thirty-five years after this event until they arrive at the birth of the Indian boy on Fifth avenue. When James Kirke married Molly Craddock neither thought very much about the strain of Indian blood in Molly's veins, except that Molly was always secretly proud of it. Kirke was not the kind of man to boast of ancestors, or even to think about them, for he had one consuming ambition from the beginning, and that was to pyramid his inherited millions into ever-increasing financial power. He became so completely absorbed in this task that after a few years Molly was left very largely to whatever dreams she may have had of the picturesque and romantic past, and to an absorbing love for her young son, Paul. She told him many of the pretty stories and some of the tragic ones which deeds had written in the lives of their ancestors, and twice she went with him to the ancient burial place near Brantford and sat beside the tomb of Thayendanege, and tried to make him see as clearly as herself the stirring days when Molly Brant came with tresses flying before Sir William Johnson.

Used to It

The night was dark and the hour late as a solitary wayfarer passed along the deserted street. Was it deserted, though? No!—three slinking figures emerged from the shadows, marked their prey, and then attacked him.

Three to one is powerful odds, but the wayfarer held his own. One by one his assailants landed with a thud on the ground, battered and bruised, their clothing torn.

A policeman hurried up and surveyed the wreckage.

"Fine work!" he said, addressing the hero, who was calmly lighting a cigarette. "Ju Jitsu?"

"No," answered the other. "Railroad porter."—Pearson's Weekly.

Whitman's "Ballyhoo"

Walt Whitman, writes Harvey O'Higgins in Harper's Magazine, at the time his first book of poems appeared, ballyhooed himself, anonymously, in the American Phenological Journal as the "laughiest of writers that has ever yet written and printed a book." And in the United States and Democratic Review, for the same month of September, 1855, he hailed himself anonymously, as "one of the roughs, large, proud, affectionate, his costume manly and free, his face sunburnt and bearded, his postures strong and erect."

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Acquisition of a $16,000 pumping fire engine and installation of new alarm boxes were accomplishments of the Oroville fire department in 1929.

More than 15,000 voters in Butte County are expected to register for the August primaries, C. F. Belding, county clerk, estimated.

Tulare County supervisors were formally advised that the California highway patrol will increase the force for the county from eight to ten members. Selection of two new men will be made shortly.

Fifteen Sonoma County teachers received credentials from the Board of Education renewing their former certificates, or permitting them to teach in other departments of the elementary school system of the county.

Napa county recently paid $3,793.28 to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, according to County Treasurer Charles Harney. The payment was derived from a three-cent levy on the first installment of taxes.

The first session of the Fourth District Court of Appeals opened at Fresno with Justices W. A. Sloane, Charles R. Barnard and E. J. Marks presiding. More than 300 cases have been assigned the court by the Supreme Court, in addition to other cases. The court will remain in session there for four months.

The Pit River tribe of Indians, one of the largest in California, is preparing a petition to be presented to Governor C. C. Young at Sacramento, asking for the restoration of their ancient hunting and fishing rights in the northeastern section of California. Chief Harry George of the branch of the tribe in Modoc county is heading the movement. About 100 square miles of territory is involved. In this the Indians will demand the waiving of all State laws and regulations as far as they are concerned. The Indians claim this right under an old treaty their forefathers made with General Crooks and his officers in 1867. Kellogg Williams of Likely has been chosen as messenger to the Governor. The petition will point out that the Indians need both the fish and game to sustain their lives, though the killing of the same is prohibited or restricted so far as the paleface is concerned.

Connoisseurs of sea food within the next few days will be able to buy a hard-shell deep-sea crab hitherto practically unknown in California. The species is cancer gracilis, and has moved in from the ocean to Bolinas Bay, according to Fish and Game Warden W. B. Selmer. The species is highly esteemed as food, according to Selmer. Fishermen are taking enormous numbers of them at Bolinas Bay.

Violation of parking ordinances led to the arrest of more persons in Eureka during 1929 than any other one charge, 647 being arrested on that charge, it was shown in the annual report of the police department. Arrests for the year totaled 1763. Three hundred and forty-one were taken on charges of drunkenness.

A $600,000 breakwater for the protection of the Monterey harbor was recommended by the House rivers and harbors committee. If the report is adopted, work will begin as soon as the appropriation is available. The plans call for a 1,300-foot breakwater, which will protect the fishing fleet and other shipping, which now suffers frequently from storms. An annual saving of $150,000 is anticipated as a result of the improvement, and an additional 125,000 tons of shipping is expected to be attracted to the port.

The State Board of Education has given the seven state teachers' colleges and the University of California at Los Angeles the right to issue teaching credentials in administration and supervision of elementary and junior high schools. In addition, individual colleges have been approved for offering credentials as follows: Chico State Teachers' College secondary credential in music. Humboldt State Teachers' College, junior high and elementary school credentials; special secondary in physical education; pre-secondary curriculum with majors in English, social science and biological sciences. Fresno State Teachers' College, pre-secondary curriculum with major in psychology and philosophy. San Diego State Teachers' College, secondary credential in music; pre-secondary with majors in social science, biological science and art.

The Santa Maria Gas Company in Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo was granted permission by the Railroad Commission to issue $1,199,300 of its common capital stock and to use the proceeds from the sale of $1,000,000 of the stock to pay indebtedness due the Pacific Lighting Corporation. Proceeds from the sale of $199,300 of the stock will go to reimburse its treasury on account of earnings expended for additions and betterments.

Modesto postal receipts in December totaled $15,005.88, a gain of $63.36 over the same month in 1928. In announcing these figures D. W. Morris, postmaster, said the receipts last month established an all time record.

San Jose's new outfall sewer, emptying into Alviso slough three miles past the present dump, will be completed by March 1, according to City Engineer W. L. Popp.

The Pickwick Company will start work March 1 on its new ten-story $600,000 hotel building, according to Burr P. McConaha, Eureka manager.

POLLY

Polly Parrot would feel so happy when the keeper would pet her and pay her attention.

She would do many tricks which would delight the keeper and his visitors.

It was the middle of the day and Polly Parrot had been talking of the difference between zoo life and life when they were free.

To be sure Polly Parrot had no desire for any other life but the one she was leading.

"I've never been anywhere but in the zoo," said Patsy Parrot. "That is, I was brought here when I was so young that I have forgotten everything else."

"You still act like all parrots, though, in the zoo or not," said Polly Parrot.

"How is that?" asked Patsy.

"You act as we do when we're wild," said Polly, "whenever a rainstorm comes."

"You sit at the top of your cage when you hear the rain pattering on the roof and you spread your wings out to catch the rain."

"You don't seem to understand that the rain can't come through the roof."

"And the same thing is true of the parrots who know nothing, absolutely nothing, about the wild life."

"I've often heard the keeper telling people about this and asking them if they didn't think it was strange that we acted the same way in a rainstorm as though we were free, even though we should know by this time that rain never comes through our roof."

"I always think it will, though," said Patsy.

"So do I," said Polly Parrot. "I do the very same thing. And I try to drink from the tree I have. I imagine that it must be covered with rain drops after a storm."

"The keeper says it's just a habit with us, and we can never get over it. It seems to be handed down from parrot to parrot, he says."

"What differences were you going to tell me between this life and the other?" asked Patsy Parrot.

"Spread Your Wings."

"Oh," said Polly, "when it's the middle of the day and we're outside we always take a nap."

"We feed early in the morning and late at night. Here we're apt to wake up during the night."

Just at that moment the keeper came along and told some visitors about the African gray parrot and his powers of talking and also about Polly and Patsy Parrot.

He gave Polly some good food, corn, flour and hempseed. She hopped down as fast as she could and began to dance for him. It had always been a favorite trick with him.

Oh, how delighted he was, and how pleased the visitors were.

Polly Parrot was very contented that she had pleased her dear keeper and the guests who had come to the zoo, and she listened while he told the visitors of zoo life among the parrots.

Dresden China Bells

Meissen, the home of the famous Dresden china, is about to celebrate the thousandth anniversary of the town's foundation. In order to celebrate this anniversary in a fitting manner, a peal of bells, made entirely of porcelain, have been installed in the Church of St. Nicholas, and they will be dedicated on the day of the festival.

It is difficult to imagine the effect of a peal of porcelain bells, but it is claimed that they are very beautiful, and the inhabitants of Meissen are eagerly awaiting the festival.

Halls and Labyrinths

They make you think of that funny Welsh town with the very long name, don't they?

As a matter of fact, these letters all make one complete sentence—but they have the vowels left out. Now see if you can put the right ones in the right places and make sense of the sentence.

Here is the answer. I hope you work it out first before you look, though:

He sells seven steel needles every eye.

The Question

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescription product.

Three Generations Endorse It

"When I was a young single girl I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because my mother did and she gave it to me. After I married I took it before my children were born and afterwards, and I have eight living children. I am now a grandmother and still take it and still recommend it when any one is tired and run-down."—Mrs. Alfred Iverson, St. Edwards, Nebraska.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

Working like the trained masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

FEEL GOOD?
Most ailments start from poor elimination (constipation or semi-constipation). Intestinal poisons sap vitality, undermine your health and make life miserable. Tonight try MR—NATURE'S REMEDY—all-vegetable corrective—not an ordinary laxative. See how MR will aid in restoring your appetite and rid you of that heavy, lumpy, peevish feeling.

BIGGER AND BETTER FILMS NOW AT THE DALY CITY THEATRE

Starting Saturday, the Daly City Theatre will present the first of its Bigger and Better Film policies, with Antonio Moreno in the Tiffany-Stahl production, "Mister Antonio."

Sunday will bring Adolph Menjou to the screen in his first Paramount all talkie, "Fashions in Love." On this bill Al Cooke will be seen in "Loves' Labor Found."

For Monday, the Daly City Theatre will present Eddie's Adversity. The now famous Eddie himself is an augmented attraction, with lots of real surprises and loads of fun, professional vaudeville talent and a big party on the stage. The screen attraction for Monday will be the Sona Art talking and singing special, "Midnight Daddies." It is a big feature length comedy hit, directed by Mack Sennett, full to the brim with funny comedy situations.

For Tuesday and Wednesday, the Daly City Theatre will present the most novel of all talking melodramatic thrillers in First National's first run Vitaphone special, "The Isle of Lost Ships." Virginia Valli, Noah Beery and Jason Robards have the three leading roles of this tremendous dramatic thriller. On the same bill Edward Everett Horton will be seen in "The Bee's Buzz," a real honest-to-goodness comedy spasm.

Thursday and Friday will bring the screen's newest team in "Forward Pass." If you love Romance and action spelled with a capital R and A, then see Loretta Young and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in this mighty football action story. It's a First National Vitaphone hit picture, and is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in entertainment. On this bill that funny man George LeMaire will be seen and heard in his great comedy vaudeville playlet, "At the Dentist." A bouncing ball novelty and the Paramount News will round out the program.

All of the above talking and sound picture plays will be offered over the Colorart Synchronone Sound System.

PUBLIC FUNDS WASTED

A classic illustration of the habitual waste of public funds at the behest of bureaucrats and their Congressional supporters was presented a few days ago by Senator Fess of Ohio, in referring to the valuation bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This bureau was organized in pursuance of an act of Congress approved March 1, 1913, for the avowed purpose of determining the value of all railroad property in the United States, in order that such valuation might be used for rate-making purposes; also to disclose whether the railroads were paying dividends on watered stock.

Referring to this 17-year-old bureau, Senator Fess said: "To date the bureau has accomplished almost nothing and the cost has been upwards of $100,000,000. It is true that the bureau has placed valuations on many of the railroads as of the year 1914, but what good does that do us in 1930, when so many changes have taken place that the old valuations are useless?"

The hundred million of expense noted by the senator refers only to the cost to the government. Even greater expense has been placed upon the railroad lines themselves, through requiring them to furnish massive volumes of data which were obsolete almost before they could be finally compiled. All of this expense was ultimately borne by the public, of course, either through taxation or railroad rates.

Still, new bureaus are created and the old ones are extended by every Congress, to keep pace with the insatiable demand of certain groups for more regulation, inspection and investigation of the harassed citizen and taxpayer. And no end to this sort of things appears to be in sight.

BANKERS FIND GROUP BANKING WIDESPREAD

Over 13 Billion Dollars of Bank Assets in Affiliated Systems Numbering 1,850 Members—In Nearly Every State.

Over 1,850 banks with more than thirteen billion dollars in resources are shown to be associated with chain or group banking systems in the United States in facts recently gathered by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The chairman of the commission, R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, pointed out that the facts indicate that "almost 7 1/2 per cent of our banks and over 18 per cent of our banking resources are in the great net of group or chain banking that now covers almost every part of the country."

The commission's facts comprised chain and group banking affiliations in the broadest sense of the term, the report said. They included those groups in which the controlling element was a particular bank, there being reported 78 instances of this class involving 407 banks and about $6,473,000,000 in combined banking resources. They included also groups in which a non-banking holding company, not subsidiary to any particular bank, was in control and of this class 28 instances were found, involving 380 banks and nearly $5,335,000,000 in resources. The report also included groupings in which control was exercised by individual persons and these cases numbered 167, involving 1,071 banks and about $1,468,000,000 in assets.

The total was over $13,275,000,000 in aggregate resources. Some of the systems comprised 50 to 100 banks each. Head offices of the groups were found in all jurisdictions, but nine of the states and the District of Columbia.

"We have not included in these figures," the report says, "banking groups in which a commercial bank, a trust company and an investment house, and sometimes a savings bank, are tied together by some form of stock holdings and operated as complementary elements in an organization rendering complete financial services. We have held that such groups are similar to a departmentalized bank and different in the purposes and operations from a chain or group banking system."

"For purposes of the present report we define chain or group banks as systems in which centralized control, whether corporate or personal and either rigid or informal, directs the operations of two or more complete banks, not functionally complementary, each working on its own capital and under its own personnel and located in one or more cities or states."

Commenting on the question whether the rapid development of chain banking was in the nature of a reaction against restrictions imposed on branch banking by the banking laws in many states the report says that observation does not wholly confirm this theory since chain banking is prevalent in some states where virtually no restriction is imposed on branch banking, as well as in those where the establishment of branch banks is prohibited. It adds:

The Question of Branch Banking
"However, the facts do show that anti-branch banking laws have been a factor in some cases, and probably in some sections, in the spread of chain banking. Instances have come to our attention where expansion along chain bank lines has been carried out by state banks whose expansion along branch bank lines was stopped by the passing of state laws prohibiting further branches. Yet whether expansion would have been along branch bank lines if the laws had imposed no barriers, it is impossible to say. There is obviously a well developed banking opinion in some sections that the chain bank method brings to outlying banks the strength and efficiency of a big organization without depriving them of their local individuality and sympathies. In view of the mixed factors noted, we feel it is unsafe to generalize as to what bearing branch banking laws have on chain developments."

"The recent era of rapid chain bank developments has found specific reflection in some state legislative action tending to restrict or control chain or group banking. Also we find a sharp difference of opinion among state bank commissioners who have expressed their sentiments regarding chain banking."

In a foreword to the report, issued in booklet form by the association at its New York City headquarters, Chairman Hecht says that "the Economic Policy Commission does not take a stand in advocacy of or in opposition to this new method of concentrating banking resources through the affiliation of banks into groups and chains, but is simply offering as a fact finding body what we believe is the first complete national picture of this rapidly growing movement."

SCHOOL SAVINGS GROW

A total of 4,222,935 school children participated in school savings banking in the United States during the last school year, depositing $28,672,496 and rolling up net savings of $10,539,928, bringing total bank balances now credited to this movement to above $60 million dollars, according to the annual report of the Savings Bank division of the American Bankers Association. Schools to the number of 15,000 are enrolled in the plan.

Writer Would Combine Harmony and Business

Wanderers in the Home park at Hampton court are said to have been startled by hearing the gangs of workmen employed in renovating its ditches and copes break into song. How far have we strayed from Merrie England, when even highwaymen and hangmen sang at their work! We may well pine for a return to the days of Peachum and Macheath. Today errand boys whistle, grooms hiss through their teeth and taxi drivers groan, but only sailors, soldiers on the march and Welsh miners sing at their work. The rest of us confine our singing to the privacy of our baths. Behind locked doors we outsoar Chaliapin, but the presence of one fellow creature is enough to reduce us to dumbness.

It was not considered strange that the old-time milkmaid crooned at her task. Who expects the modern typist to follow her example? It is frequently complained that noise is the curse of civilization. Why not turn it into a blessing by making it harmonious? When every man sings no din of traffic will be heard. "Tis a sure sign work goes on merrily," said Isaac Bickerstaff, "when folk sing at it." It is high time we forsok the idea that work is a penance to be performed in silence in a black coat.

Razing of Babylon Not Completed by Darius

Babylon was never entirely destroyed after the time of the conquest by Darius, described in the Book of Daniel. That conquest took place in the year 521 B. C., but except that part of the walls was razed during a rebellion in 514, Darius did not destroy systematically. His son, Xerxes, destroyed part of the great temple of Bel, or Baal, called E-Sagilla, which was also a fortress. The religion of Darius, however, was monotheistic zoroastrianism and because of this many temples fell into disrepair. About 312 B. C. a dynasty arose called the Seleucids, founded by a general of Alexander the Great. He conquered Babylon in 323. When the Seleucids founded the new capital Seleucia near Babylon they used the ancient city as a quarry and there is record that in 275 B. C. all the inhabitants of Babylon were transported to the new town, though it is known that religious services were still held in the old temple of Bel a century later.—Montreal Family Herald.

Originator of Income Tax

It is a curious fact that income tax was "invented" by an Oxford don, Dr. Henry Beeke, a fellow of Oriel college, who afterwards became dean of Bristol. Beeke was professor of modern history at Oxford, though his real forte was finance, and he frequently assisted Vansittart with the budget during that statesman's long tenure of the chancellorship of the exchequer. Disgruntled taxpayers will learn with grim satisfaction that Doctor Beeke came to a sad end. He died in exile at Torquay, whither he had fled for refuge from the "Bristol riots" at the time of the first Reform bill.—London Times.

Death for Selling Tobacco

China was introduced to tobacco early in the Seventeenth century, but it was not long before its use was prohibited by imperial edict and decapitation prescribed as a penalty for anyone who clandestinely hawked it, writes Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History.

The edict proved unenforceable and soon was rescinded, because of the general disregard accorded it by nobles and commoners alike, and because tobacco had been adopted as a remedy for colds in the army, unexcelled by any other remedy with which the Chinese then were acquainted.—Detroit News.

For Boyish Uplift

The Catholic Boys' Brigade of the United States is a nationwide union of individual branches guided by national and regional headquarters in doing preventive work among all types of boys by means of organized recreation and modern social work. Its organization is semi-military, but not militaristic. Its recreational and social meetings are not religious and are open to all boys without distinction as to creed or color. Although operated by Catholics, according to its own principles, it is not sectarian in its social work.—Washington Star.

Master of the Angels

There was once a sculptor who lived so long ago that every one has forgotten his name, but he would not mind, for artists and critics have given him a new one; he is the Master of the Angels. He had a magic gift for turning dead stones into gracious faces and fluttering wings, and critics say his angels are different from all others.

The angels in the central and southern doorways of the west portal of Chartres cathedral, which dates from the middle of the Twelfth century, are said to be his work.

Uselessness of Worry

Worry will put more lines in a human countenance than work will ever do. It's the most useless mental exercise we engage in; the greatest wear on our finely attuned brains. And it's downright waste of human energy.—Grit.

VOLUME 3 FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1930 NUMBER 27

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Optimism
On the eve of his wedding a Vienna bridegroom challenged the best man to a duel. And jealous acquaintances of the bride declare that he subsequently remarked, "and may the best man win."

S. O. S.
See Our Stuff.

Plump!
Gertie: "Did Harold have an aeroplane?"
Bertie: "No, he came down to earth without that."

Before you go to sleep tonight, ask yourself if the world in general is any better off because of your having lived another day.

Taking Pa Down a Peg
After suitable preparation to receive the news, the man who had been a father for fifteen minutes arrived at the hospital and was ushered by a nurse to the bedside.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed, "look at the boy! He's got my eyes, my nose, my chin—"
"That's all right, dear," observed the mother, "but let's hope he never gets your breath."

"ABERDEEN" and American Block—the coals that satisfy.

When you get the idea in your head that the world is against you—it is.

"So you were in the army during the war, eh? Did you put up a good fight?"
"Yes, but I finally had to go."

Hairless
Friend (to hunter): "What kind of luck did you have?"
The Hunter: "Bald man's luck. I combed the woods without finding a single hare."

We are equipped at all times to serve you in connection with repair work.

Wife: "What delayed you two men?"
Hubby: "I was showing Sandy where Washington threw the dollar across the Potomac, and he insisted on searching for the dollar."
